DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-4 have been examined and are pending.

Drawings

Formal drawings are required in response to the instant Office action.

The drawings are objected to because the figure should not have "1/1" because it is the only figure of the invention (see MPEP 608.02 (u)(1)). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC ' 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -- the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Art Unit: 2131

Claims 1, 2, 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ehram et al (USP 4,386,234).

As per claim 1, Ehram et al teach an encryption method wherein at least one cryptographic sub-operation is performed on digital data stored as at least one data bit word in a storage cell or a register, characterized in that a data bit word generated on the basis of random numbers is stored in a storage cell before a data bit word is written therein (column 36, lines 30-44).

As per claim 2, Ehram et al teach that the bit word based on random numbers is written into the storage cell by a processor (see Figure 2, elements 2 and 3).

As per claim 4, Ehram et al teach that the bit word based on random numbers is stored in the storage cell at an instant in time, which precedes the cryptographic sub-operation (column 36, lines 30-44).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC ' 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ehram et al in view of Yasuhiko (JP 01-298829).

As per claim 3, Ehram et al teach that the bit word based on random numbers is written into the storage cell via a microprocessor (see Figure 2, elements 2 and 3) but is silent in disclosing that the storage cell is directed connected to a random number source. Yasuhiko teaches that the bit word based on random numbers is written into the storage cell via a direct connection between a random number source and the storage cell (see abstract constitution). Yasuhiko teaches that this is performed to improve the characteristic against complicated cryptographic processing, to privacy security and prevention of illegal invasion to a network line (see abstract purpose). It is advantageous to provide a direct line to the storage cell from the random number source because that would permit a secure path for the data to follow without having to be stored temporarily.

In view of this, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the teaching of Yasuhiko within the system of Ehrtam et al because having a direct line between the random generator and the storage cell provides a secure path that can be used to efficiently supply the storage cell with random numbers to protect against cryptanalysis. One skilled in the art would have been motivated to generate the claimed invention with a reasonable expectation of success.

Remarks

No claim is allowed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
